PART 1

Megan Lynn Wilson

LOCATE A DIRECTORY YOU WOULD HAVE USED WHEN INSTALLING THE PROGRAMS IN IN MODULE 1.

| Program	Directory Path
Google Chrome	C:\Program Files (x86)\Google\Chrome\Application
Slack	C:\Users\Megan\AppData\Local\Microsoft\WindowsApps\slack
Git Bash (Windows only)	C:\ProgramData\Microsoft\Windows\Start Menu\Programs\Git
Python (Version 3)	C:\Users\Megan\Anaconda3\Python
VirtualBox	C:\Program Files\Oracle\VirtualBox\virtualbox
Ubuntu Linux (WSL)	C:\Users\Megan\AppData\Local\Microsoft\WindowsApps\Ubuntu
Kali Linux (WSL)	C:\Users\Megan\AppData\Local\Microsoft\WindowsApps\kali
GitKraken	C:\Users\Megan\AppData\Local\gitkraken
Wireshark	C:\Program Files\Wireshark
Grammarly	C:\Users\Megan\AppData\Roaming\Microsoft\Windows\Start Menu\Programs\Grammarly
Oh-my-zsh!	\\wsl$\kali-linux\home\kali\.oh-my-zsh
.zshrc

CREATED ACCOUNTS

Website	Account
LinkedIn	https://www.linkedin.com/in/megan-wilson-20414b41/
GitHub	https://github.com/classic89/
GitLab	https://gitlab.com/classic89
Google	Retrorock8821@gmail.com
ISACA	https://www.isaca.org/pages/default.aspx
(ISC)^2^	https://www.isc2.org/Dashboard/Profile

CLI

CLI

LOCATE A DIRECTORY WITHIN A DIRECTORY
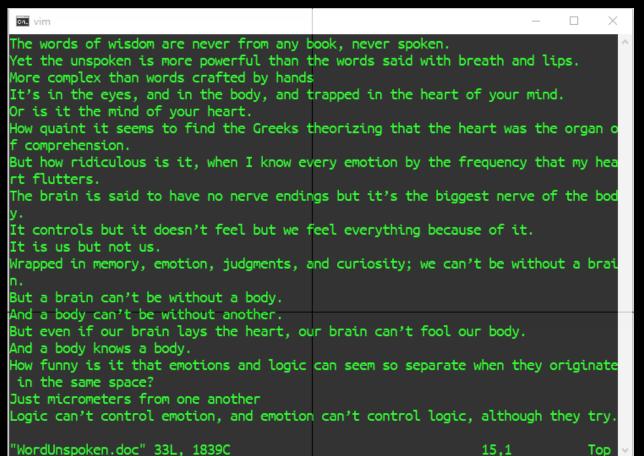

OPEN .DOC IN THE TERMINAL

~/Documents
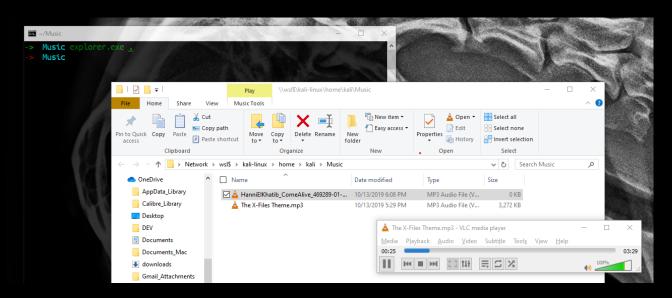

```
-> Documents vim WordUnspoken.doc
-> Documents
```
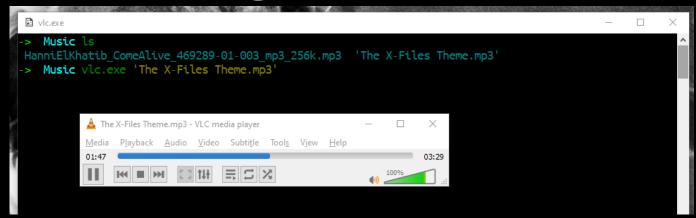

vim

```
The words of wisdom are never from any book, never spoken.
Yet the unspoken is more powerful than the words said with breath and lips.
More complex than words crafted by hands
It's in the eyes, and in the body, and trapped in the heart of your mind.
Or is it the mind of your heart.
How quaint it seems to find the Greeks theorizing that the heart was the organ o f comprehension.
But how ridiculous is it, when I know every emotion by the frequency that my hea rt flutters.
The brain is said to have no nerve endings but it's the biggest nerve of the bod y.
It controls but it doesn't feel but we feel everything because of it.
It is us but not us.
Wrapped in memory, emotion, judgments, and curiosity; we can't be without a brai n.
But a brain can't be without a body.
And a body can't be without another.
But even if our brain lays the heart, our brain can't fool our body.
And a body knows a body.
How funny is it that emotions and logic can seem so separate when they originate in the same space?
Just micrometers from one another
Logic can't control emotion, and emotion can't control logic, although they try.

"WordUnspoken.doc" 33L, 1839C                                    15,1        Top
```

LOCATE .MP3

OPEN .MP3 USING TERMINAL

OR

OPEN .JPEG USING TERMINAL

OR